About Me

I am currently listed as a performer as well as a Teaching Artist in the NC Arts Council's Roster of Touring Artists. I'm also an approved artist for the South Carolina Arts Commission. For 17 years as a member and co-artistic director of North Carolina's touring mime ensemble, TOUCH, I performed and taught throughout the U.S. Currently I share my work as a solo artist as well as combining my artistic talents with storyteller Louise Omoto Kessel for a program titled Stories and Mime. I bring over 27 years of performing experience to my work. I am a proud member of the NC Association of Festivals and Events and the SC Festival and Events Association.

About My Performances

My InterACTIVE Theater is designed specifically for celebrations, festivals, street fairs and first nights. I work well both outdoors and in, wherever audience members can unexpectedly happen upon me. I also work well onstage as an opening act or an entr'acte. Combining mime, masks, foolish props and other variety arts, I rove through the crowd, incorporating audience members as willing participants in my performance. Some of the ways crowd members participate is by creating the faces on my masks, posing for photos with my masterpiece camera, interacting with the mime and juggling, and playing a human-sized ring toss game with one another.

Since I communicate with gestures and action, my InterACTIVE Theater can be appreciated by all people attending your event. In a given day, I can rove a festival site for up to 6 hours.
